Assessment The purpose of AAR is to support research, education, and extension work to address critical agricultural problems at the state, regional, and national levels, resulting in increased knowledge and better practices at all levels of agricultural activity. This includes advancing the knowledge base on the causes, effects, and management of human health and economic impacts of climate variability and change on agriculture and food systems, particularly in terms of food security and resilience. The Program Area includes research, education, and extension efforts that address the needs of farmers, ranchers, and other stakeholders to develop strategies and actions that will help them to adapt to and mitigate climate change impacts.
