

There are two types of registration fee: an “On Campus Registration Fee” and “Off Campus Registration Fee”. This is quite complex so please take time to understand the difference between the two types of fee.

The “On Campus Registration Fee” is for delegates who stay on campus in the University halls of residence. Most delegates will be doing this, The registration fee pays for your entrance to the scientific programme, a copy of the abstract book, the conference bag and the conference banquet. You will then pay a separate charge for your accommodation with us. The price for this accommodation includes the following: breakfast, lunch, dinner, tea and coffee, the mixer (which consists of a buffet meal and drinks) and the barbecue. This is a very good offer (the best deal available) and therefore we recommend that you stay on campus. Delegates may choose between a standard room (shared bathroom) for £60 per night or an ensuite room for £80 per night. A limited number of twin bed ensuite rooms are also available. The standard of accommodation on the campus is very good.

The “Off Campus Registration Fee” is for delegates who have chosen to make their own accommodation arrangements by staying in a private hotel or B&B outside of the campus. If you do this, then the registration fee is higher than the ‘on campus fee’. It includes the following: entrance to the scientific programme, a copy of the abstract book, the conference bag and the conference banquet. It also includes: lunches, tea and coffee, entrance to the mixer (Sunday evening) and the barbecue (Tuesday evening). It does not include dinner on Monday or Wednesday evening.

When you register for SIP2008 using the on line form, you will click on buttons that give you choices for staying on campus or off campus. The form will automatically calculate how much money you have to pay us.
