BARD: Workshop Grant Applications Due mid-January

United States – Israel Binational Agricultural Research and Development Fund workshops are a cooperative effort of scientists from both U.S. and Israel to identify research needs in areas of new development, define directions and opportunities regarding contemporary agricultural needs, and provide information needed to address policy issues. Proposals are submitted jointly by at least one scientist from each country. Funding for the workshops ranges from $20,000 to $45,000. Workshops cannot occur before Sept. 1, 2017. Applications are accepted annually in mid-January; exact dates will be posted on the BARD website. More
